

SENATE HEARINGS OPEN

Port Bill Chances 'Touch And Go'

By CHARLES MCGURK
Courier-Times Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—It looked like a case of touch-and-go for Senate Bill S-2346 as hearings on the measure opened today before a Senate judiciary subcommittee here.

The first three witnesses to bore this out as Pennsylvania Sen. Hugh Scott and Congressman Willard S. Curtin spoke in favor of the measure and Congressman Fred B. Rooney, representing Pennsylvania counties in Northampton, Carbon, Monroe and Pike, opposed the bill.

Senator Scott is one of the sponsors of the bill which is also sponsored by Sen. Joseph S. Clark and New Jersey Senators Clifford Case and Harrison Williams. Clark, Case and Williams were not present at the hearings.

Strong Opposition

The bill, which would permit regional development of port facilities on the Delaware River north of Philadelphia to Trenton was expected to receive strong opposition from groups opposing the diversion of tolls from Upper Delaware River bridges to help finance the development of the port. This was the point driven home by Rooney who said that passage of the bill "would be a gross injustice to people in my district."

"We look with great favor," Rooney said, "upon the port development because we are good neighbors and we know that any move which stimulates the economic outlook of communities which lie down river from us cannot help but have some advantageous effect on our own people and our economy."

"But," Rooney added, "we are emphatically opposed to the method suggested in S-2346 for financing the construction of this port."

Rooney suggested that the port development for the upper Delaware could be feasibly handled by the Philadelphia Port Authority which has its present jurisdiction from the Philadelphia line south along the Delaware.

Curtin told the subcommittee members that over the years Congress has advanced many millions of dollars to deepen the Delaware River up to the Trenton-Morrisville area.

Everyone Agrees

He also said that everyone has agreed that the development of a port facility in this area is regarded as a virtual must for continued growth and economic stability.

"With this in mind," Curtin said, "the question arose as to the proper agency to act as the vehicle for the creation, management and administration of the port."

Curtin told the subcommittee that he, with Congressman Frank Thompson of New Jersey, introduced the bill into the House which would enlarge the jurisdiction of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission to undertake the development.

"I looked into the matter very thoroughly and then concluded, and I still believe, that this was and is the proper agency to do this work," Curtin said. Curtin's bill passed the House unanimously last year.

Scott told the subcommittee that when he introduced the measure last Nov. 26, there was virtually no opposition to it except by the Bureau of Public Roads of the U.S. Department of Commerce. Upon House approval of its companion measure, objections began to be voiced by business and civic leaders in the Lehigh Valley region.

"As sponsor of S-2346, I favor approval of this legislation," Scott said. "In supporting development of these port facilities, however, I have not closed my mind to argument advanced by the opponents of the pending legislation. Fairness demands that both sides have ample opportunity to present their respective cases. The subcommittee's task he concluded, "is to weigh them and decide the issue on its merits."

Opponents of the measure, chiefly officials of the Lehigh Valley area and organizations of motorist and truckers, will have their chance to testify before the subcommittee tomorrow. Proponents, business and civic leaders from Bucks, Burlington and Mercer counties have their day today. They planned their testimony at a strategy session last night attended by more than 20 representatives of industry, labor and local governments from the three counties.

The bill, similar to one passed unanimously by the House of Representatives, would enable the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission to broaden its compact with the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey to undertake the proposed $6 million port development. No federal monies are involved in the project.

The bi-states bridge commission presently operates five toll bridges between the two states and proposes the use, for a time, of tolls from the bridges to guarantee a bond issue and to help overcome estimated deficit financing of about $125,000. (Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)

EXCEPT FOR FEW INCIDENTS

Cyprus Cease-Fire Observed, UN Says

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—The United Nations said today the cease-fire between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities was being "generally observed" except for isolated and often accidental incidents.

An official statement said Turkish air force F100 Super-sabre jetfighters today reconnoitered the weekend battle area in northwestern Cyprus but took no offensive action.

The planes flew over the battle area around Kokkina, a Turkish Cypriot coastal village surrounded by Greek Cypriot troops. Turkish jets had bombed and strafed the Greek positions there for four straight days starting last Friday.

Turkey said Monday night it would refrain from further air raids unless new ground assaults were launched against Kokkina.

(In Ankara, a Turkish Foreign Office spokesman said Turkish jets reconnoitered the Kokkina area, noted some "not very important" exchanges of fire on the ground and took no offensive action.)

(In London, the Cyprus high commission said the Greek Cypriot government had protested to the United Nations about today's reconnaissance flights.)

The U.N. confirmed today that Turkish jets Monday strafed the Greek Cypriot port of Polis, 55 miles northwest of Nicosia. A spokesman said it was estimated that 10 persons were wounded and five cars, four houses, a movie theater and one cafe were damaged.

Holding Urgent Talks

Greek Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou left by plane for Athens today for what he called "talks of an urgent character" with Greek officials.

The Greek Cypriot government declined to comment officially on the Turkish demand that the cease-fire be conditional on a Greek Cypriot withdrawal from captured Turkish Cypriot villages in the northwest.

But high Greek Cypriot sources said Monday night it was "psychologically impossible" to meet the Turkish demands.

Greek and Turkish Cypriots buried the dead today and bitterly awaited the next move that could destroy the fragile day-old peace between them.

Even the peace was not complete. Sporadic small arms fire rattled the shutters along Ledra Street, the re-born "murder mile" in downtown Nicosia, last night and echoed in the battle-torn hills of northwest Cyprus.

Baby Abandoned In Parking Lot

Burlington County today was still looking for clues as to the identity of a premature three-pound white girl baby found abandoned in a parking lot yesterday.

The infant, believed to have been born a few hours before it was discovered, was temporarily tagged "Baby Girl Doe."

Mrs. Dorothy Henasey of 335 E. Pearl St., Burlington, happened to look out her kitchen window early yesterday and spotted the infant.

The tiny baby was lying naked on a newspaper and was beginning to turn blue from exposure. Today, she was reportedly "doing as well as can be expected" by attendants at Rancocas Valley Hospital, Willingboro.

The infant was in an incubator in the isolation nursery under the care of the chief of pediatrics. The usual food formula for premature babies was being fed the infant by eyedropper.

Demos Turn Trend, Lead In New Voters

Bucks County's Democratic Organization has reversed the trend in voter registration in its favor during the 1964 Presidential campaign as compared to four years ago.

With the first three weeks of the eight-week registration period completed, the number of new Democrats registered totals 2,031 to 1,491 for the Republicans. This includes both traveling and court house registration.

1960 Figures

During the Kennedy - Nixon contest in 1960, Republicans were outregistering Democrats by the same ratio, 4 to 3. At the end of the three-week period in 1960, 3,970 GOP voters had been enrolled by the traveling registrars, to 3,003 for the Democrats. No figures were available for the registration at the court house during the same span.

John T. Welsh, Bucks Democratic chairman, saw the figures as "a trend to the Democratic party."

"The registration against Goldwater and the enthusiasm of Democratic workers could mean that Pennsylvania will fall into the Democratic column in November," Welsh said. "I just

'Two Guys' Plan Studied

Two Guys, a New Jersey department store chain, is reported to be very close to buying 12 acres of the 16-acre Country Club Shopping Center in order to erect a large department store.

At this time, the Middletown Township authorities are looking at plans for a 100,000 - square - foot building in order to be sure it complies with the local building codes. As yet the chain has made no comment on the proposed one-story edifice.

Where To Register

Bucks County traveling registrars will sit until 9 o'clock tonight at the Brookview Elementary School, Alendale Road and Alden Ave., Falls Township. Tomorrow they will be at the William Penn Fire Co., Hulmeville and the Richlandtown Fire House, Main St. from 2 to 9 p.m.

5 Stricken In Bucks

Search On For Typhoid 'Carrier'

The Bucks County Health Department for the past three months has been looking for a possible "carrier" who may be spreading typhoid fever.

The disclosure was made today by Dr. William J. Meyer, director of the county health department. He said that five persons have been stricken within the last three months, but that none of the victims is seriously ill. They are the first cases in the county since 1962.

One victim, a man, lives in Newtown. Another, a 2½ year - old boy, lives in Doylestown Township and the remaining three cases are in East Rockhill Township near Quakertown. The latter three victims are a boy of nine and two girls a few years older.

Dr. Meyer said that thus far there is no evidence to link the cases. He said that more than 60 persons in the East Rockhill Area have been tested without finding a carrier.

"It appears that it is just coincidental that we have five cases at one time in the county," Dr. Meyer said.

The director explained that a specific bacteria is the cause of the disease which is transmitted from person to person through breaks in personal hygiene or a breakdown in the sanitation system.

In May it was revealed that four polluted wells were found in the Kooker Ave. section of East Rockhill Township where the fever had broken out.

The Health Department has made recommendations to the township officials in an effort to control pollution.

Last week signs were posted at a Doylestown manufacturing plant advising all employees to see their own family doctor. The notice was posted at the Mohawk Devices, Inc., Broad and Doyle Sts., after an employee was admitted to Doylestown Hospital showing symptoms of the fever.

A notice in the plant which manufactures electrical devices reads: "There is a possibility that the one employee admitted to the hospital may have typhoid fever."

Church Request Brings Debate

Pennsbury Tackles Religion In Schools

The thorny issue of religion in the public schools was tackled last night by the Pennsbury Joint School Board.

The school directors debated a request from a new Lower Makefield parish — St. John the Evangelist — for temporary use of a school building for Sunday services.

Action on the request was tabled to permit the board's solicitor — Walter Jackson — to do additional legal research.

The request came to light during last month's meeting. At that time Jackson was instructed to investigate the legality of permitting such usage and to report back the next meeting.

In a detailed report last night, Jackson stated "it is a violation of the Constitution and the school code to permit use of school facilities by religious and sectarian groups."

Despite Jackson's statement and supporting evidence cited by him, an apparent majority of the joint board members indicated a desire to permit the church use of the district's facilities.

A motion to that effect was introduced by Bradshaw Snipes, Falls vice-president, but was tabled so that Jackson might check the legality of "relevant" issues: use of a district's facilities for baccalaureate services and Easter sunrise services.

Jackson is to present his findings at the next regular meeting of the board.

One board member later said privately, "By the time the board acts the church building will have been built."

In his statement last night Jackson said the policy of the joint board permits outside use of its school facilities except for religious or sectarian uses. He said the law supports the joint board's policy.

Cites Case

Jackson cited the Hyson case of 1894 and a letter from the Pennsylvania attorney general to support his findings.

Richard Day, chairman of the Falls board, was the first to object to the law. "My conscience would bother me," he said, "if we reject the church's appeal." He said he was "sure disturbed" by the church's having to use a restaurant for services, (Sherwood Inn, Falls Township).

Robert Trefz, joint board president, concurred. "It seems unfair," he said, "that the American Nazi Party could use our facilities but not a church."

In presenting his motion granting the Charles Boehm School, Lower Makefield, for the church's use, Snipes said, "I don't see how this use would offend the Constitution."

John Millard of the Falls board supported Jackson's findings. "We've gotten the solicitor's opinion," he stated. "How can we turn around and grant this?"

He added, "If I didn't know it was not correct, I'd go along with the motion."

Raymond Wiese of Lower Makefield backed Millard. He felt the board would violate the law if it granted the request. He said the board members were being guided by their feelings.

"This is similar to our feelings about Bible reading," Wiese said. "If we took a vote on that, we'd probably all favor (Continued on Page 4, Col. 6)

The new Pennsbury High School is having more trouble getting through than the Greeks at the walls of Troy.

The walls of delay seemed unsurmountable last night as the Pennsbury Joint School Board debated over an hour about supposed "frills" in the architect's final plans, then postponed approval of the plans. It also debated cost of the school, now estimated at almost $4,000,000.

Why Don't They Vote?

This is a question that has disturbed governmental leaders, psychologists and politicians for many years now. Why are only half of the people in this nation registered as voters and why do only 60 per cent of those who are registered actually cast a ballot in a presidential election?

UPI Correspondent Harry Ferguson discusses this question, and analyzes the American voter, in the first of a series of three dispatches on today's feature page, Page 7.

Viet Nam Tries To Bring War Home To Gay Capital

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government today announced plans to dig 500 public air raid shelters capable of protecting 400,000 residents of Saigon from possible Communist air attacks.

City Prefect Duong Ngoc Lam, announcing the plan at a public meeting at city hall, also asked citizens to construct air raid shelters in their own back yards.

Some officials in Saigon, which is known as the "Paris of the Orient," have criticized residents of the capital for being gay and light hearted despite years of warfare against Communist guerrillas.

This allowed South to make a trick with his nine spot and two spades, one heart, two diamonds and three clubs added up to eight tricks for declarer.

How many defensive errors can you spot and what was the key error?

How about the opening lead? Unfortunately, but you can't always guess the best opening.

How about the queen of spades shift? Unfortunately, but not really an error. East wasn't looking at all the cards.

What about the eight of spades lead? A decided error, but at that point South could make the hand against any return. Suppose a diamond return. South simply cashes the ace of diamonds, ace of hearts and ace-king of clubs. Then he throws East in with the last club and East is compelled to lead a spade to South.

Should the hand have been beaten at all? Yes! West should not the king on the first spade have played the three of spades, lead. Then, if East either continued with a low spade or sniffling to the diamond, South would have had no play for his contract.

Dr. Sheppard In Hospital

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Dr. Sam Sheppard, freed from Ohio Penitentiary last month after serving nearly 10 years for the 1954 slaying of his wife, was confined again today—to a hospital bed.

Sheppard was operated on Monday for a slipped spinal disc and was reported in good condition at Brentwood Hospital after the 90-minute operation.

Dr. Theodore F. Classen, the hospital's chief of staff, performed the operation which was expected to keep the former osteopath hospitalized about 10 days.

Sheppard was expected to spend several weeks recuperating at his suburban Rocky River home.

Mrs. Sheppard said her husband of three weeks preferred treatment by Classen because he was the family physician and trained by Sheppard's father, Dr. Richard Sheppard Sr.

Classen said Sheppard had a back condition that generally worsened over the past six months.

Sheppard was freed on $10,000 bond on July 16, the day after a federal judge set aside his second-degree murder conviction on grounds his constitutional rights were violated during the trial.

He married Ariane Tebbenjohanns two days after his release and late last month the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld his release on bond pending his decision on the federal court order freeing him. That decision is not expected until October.

Premier Nguyen Khanh declared last winter, "people are dying in the countryside but only twisting in Saigon."

Lam said the government is trying to create an atmosphere of "real emergency" with its recent air raid drills.

The drills started after U.S. planes bombed North Vietnamese torpedo boat installations in retaliation for two Communist attacks on American destroyers in international waters.

They fitted in with government efforts to bring the war effort home to the pleasure-loving residents of Saigon.

Lam criticized the reaction of the capital's citizens to the first practice air raid drill Sunday. He said traffic started moving before the all clear sounded.

Lam said people crowded around first aid teams and fire fighters "as if it were all a play." He called for "a more active discipline."

Fire Destroys $25,000 Richboro Barn

Nine fire companies and more than 100 firemen fought vainly last night to save a Richboro barn from destruction.

According to Chief Bill Wendig of the Richboro Fire Company damages totaled $25,000.

Flames from the huge barn located on Holland Road, which were as high as 100 feet, lit the sky and could be seen from as far away as Langhorne.

The barn, owned by Martin Feeney, a former resident of the area, contained 600 bales of hay.

The 45-foot high structure collapsed shortly after the fire began at 9:10 p.m. It was not until 4 o'clock this morning that the last truck left the scene.

Wendig said he has not been able to determine the cause of the blaze.

"There is no question as to the cooperative spirit of our firemen and the volunteers of the other companies that responded immediately," said the chief.

"The only problem we experienced in battling the fire was water shortage. At first we pumped the from the stream that went dry on us. We then used the water from our tank trucks."

Two tankers traveled back and forth to the Springfield Water Company reserve on Churchville Lane, three miles away.

This was the second big barn fire in the area in the past three months. A fire in June destroyed the barn of J. D. Morrissey only a mile and a half down Holland Road from Feeney's barn.

Falls, Tullytown Schools Adopt Joint Rec Program

The Falls Township and Tullytown school boards last night adopted a joint recreation program.

The program, to begin in September for the 1964-65 school year, carries with it a $30,900 price tag of which Falls will bear 94 per cent and Tullytown the remaining six per cent. Falls will pay $29,046 and Tully-town $1,854 for the 10-month program.

The cost percentage was based on the percentage of pupils each district has in the Pennsylvania system. The Falls board will bill Tullytown board in January and June of each fiscal year.

At present the Tullytown program is primarily a summer program while Falls Township's operates all year.

John McInerney, head of Falls recreation, said that Tullytown, in joining the Falls program, will pay approximately the same as it planned to spend for recreation this year. The Tullytown board had budgeted $1,800 for recreation.

Among scheduled activities are field hockey, soccer, football, modern dance, basketball, a fishing tournament, wrestling, gymnastics, and others.

Secret Report

In other action last night, the Falls board accepted a year-end report from William Ingraham, regional superintendent of Pennsylvania. The report was the result of a Falls request at its last month's meeting.

At that time, Falls member Jim Smith asked why Falls was suddenly presented with a reconciliation bill showing a 10 per cent increase in its 1963 - 64 budget. He objected to a "lump sum" bill and wanted to know why the board hadn't been kept up - to - date on its expenses throughout the year.

Ingraham's report was not made public.

In other action the Falls board accepted the resignation of Rubin Landy from the Falls Township and Pennsylvania joint school building authorities. Richard Byron was appointed to both posts.

The board announced that the special census of the township was expected to begin around

Sept. 8 and that its appeal of Act 229 (school reorganization) had been filed with the state Department of Public Instruction. Finally the board voted $5, 000 per acre in settlement of land condemned for the Eleanor Roosevelt School, thus ending a year of negotiations. The 8.5 acres was owned by Andrew Czechvet. Richard Day, president of Falls, said the settlement was "definitely in Falls' favor."

3 Steps To Up Efficiency

Bucks Increases Use Of Computers

The Bucks County Commissioners today announced three steps they are taking to improve the efficiency of the county government and its benefits to the people through the increased use of automatic data processing equipment.

Commissioners John Justus Bodley, Joseph O. Canby and Walter S. Farley, Jr., have ordered a high-speed 1401G computer from International Business Machines Corporation.

This large capacity computer, which has decision making capabilities, is scheduled to be delivered to the County Administration Building in early October. It will be used in conjunction with other I.B.M. equipment which the county has used for the past four years.

Professional Basis

The commissioners said they have begun to organize the Data Processing Department on a professional basis.

As a result of a competitive examination which was given to approximately 25 applicants, Frank L. Moskal was appointed head of the department and two experienced data processing specialists were hired to assist in the administration of the department. They are Rodger R. Moss, a programmer and Larry Wegscheider, a machine operator.

The third step was to engage, as a consultant, Dr. Barclay G. Jones, a professor of the Department of City and Regional Planning of the Cornell University School of Architecture.

Dr. Jones will meet regularly with the commissioners and the heads of each department with three purposes in mind: To discuss the information systems concept, to encourage the mechanization of current hand data systems and to stimulate interest in going beyond mechanization to perform new operations made possible by automatic data processing.

Commissioner Farley presented the information systems concept, to encourage the mechanization of current hand data systems and to stimulate interest in going beyond mechanization to perform new operations made possible by automatic data processing.

38 Due At GOP Summit

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI)—Thirty-eight national Republican leaders gather here Wednesday for a top-level, closed - door campaign strategy session.

Topping the list of participants will be Sen. Barry Goldwater, the party's presidential nominee, who called the meeting, and U.S. Rep. William E. Miller, the vice presidential candidate.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is scheduled to address a luncheon of the Republican chieftains. The luncheon will be open to the press, and a news conference will follow.

Other participants are Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 12 other Republican governors and 14 of the 17 GOP gubernatorial candidates.

Also on hand will be Dean Burch, who succeeded Miller as Republican national chairman; Sen. Thurston B. Morton, chairman of the Senate Campaign Committee; U.S. Rep. Robert Wilson, chairman of the House Campaign Committee; John Grier, executive director of the National Committee, and Wayne J. Hood, the campaign field director.

Scranton, who is acting as host for the meeting, also has invited about 20 Pennsylvania Republican candidates and party leaders.

The 38 Republican leaders called to the strategy session have been invited by Scranton and his wife to a dinner tonight at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, north of here.

Govs. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and George Clyde of Utah will not attend the meeting due to previous commitments.

Burglar Hits 3rd Apartment

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Police investigated a possibility today that the same robber was responsible for a series of three burglaries on the 12th floor of an apartment building in the past eight days.

The latest burglary in the 2601 Benjamin Franklin Parkway building was reported Monday evening. Mrs. Sarah Blum, 60, owner of a downtown antique shop. Mrs. Blum said she returned home to find burglars had taken 20 pieces of antique diamond jewelry valued at $9,000 from her bedroom.

In the other 12th floor burglaries, the apartment of attorney John Patrick Walsh was looted of $500 and $5,000 in jewelry was stolen from the apartment of Mrs. Sadie Al. boum.

Reds Ready 2nd Space Woman

MOSCOW (UPI)—Cosmonaut Pavel Popovich's wife Marina today became an unofficial favorite to become the second woman in space.

A report in the government newspaper Izvestia, coming amid hints of a new Soviet space shot, put the spotlight on Mrs. Popovich.

Marina "has finished the higher aviation school and has now left for a distant business trip," the newspaper article said Monday night.

Is Mrs. Popovich, a Soviet aircraft speed record holder, planning "new flights?"

Izvestia quoted her husband Pavel as saying, "the machine with which she is now familiarizing herself in considerably more powerful than the one in which she established a new record for speed two months ago."

If she goes, Mrs. Popovich will become the second woman in space. The first, Valentina Tereshkova, is her "close friend," according to Izvestia.

ed Dr. Jones to the department heads at a recent meeting in the county's conference room.

Essential Information

The consultant told the group: "In government today, while activities are getting more and more complex, decisions tend to become worse, due to the lack of all the essential information upon which the decisions should be based."

"The computer gives you tremendous power for analysis," Dr. Jones said. "By taking full advantage of it, you will make your county government a better service instrument, more responsive to the needs of the people."

Dr. Jones emphasized the need for each department to store its information in a manner that will make it useful and accessible to other county departments.

The 1401 computer, combining the functions of several unit record machines now used by the county, will process data four times as fast. The job of producing the real estate tax duplicate will be reduced from ten to two steps. The 1965 tax duplicates will be one of its first assignments.

Red China Migs In N. Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China has moved "a number" of old-type Mig jet fighters into North Viet Nam since last Thursday, the Defense Department announced today.

Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester told newsmen the planes were MIG 15's and MIG 17's, both subsonic fighters of Russian manufacture. They are not considered a match for the types of fighters the United States has deployed aboard carriers in the South China Sea and at bases in South Viet Nam.

New Cloverleaf Takes Shape

A new, full cloverleaf takes shape in Morrisville at the entrance to the Trenton-Morrisville Toll Bridge. New ramps are being constructed to add on to the previous ramps already in existence at S. Pennsylvania Ave. The new ramps will enable traffic to flow more smoothly to and from the bridge toll plaza on Route 1. In addition, the bridge (left, background) is being widened from four to six lanes. (Courier-Times Aerial Photo By Bob Curtis)

Dispute Rages On Air Strike Disclosure By President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon and an admiral on the scene were in apparent disagreement today as to whether Communist radar detected last week's air strike against North Viet Nam PT boat bases before President Johnson announced the action.

The officer, Rear Adm. Robert B. Moore, commander of the task force which led the U.S. raids, said he did not believe the Reds detected the attacks before Johnson spoke. The Pentagon stood on a previous statement that they did.

Both agreed, however, that the presidential announcement did not endanger the success of the raids.

The seeming discrepancy led Republican Rep. Ed Foreman of Texas to renew his complaint that Johnson announced the raids prematurely. Foreman said it indicated to him that "the Pentagon came up with an excuse for the President when he got himself in a bind."

The controversy centered on the fact that Johnson told the nation in a broadcast last Tuesday night that North Vietnamese torpedo boat attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin had forced him to order an attack on their bases.

The President, who spoke at 11:35 p.m. EDT, added: "Air action is now in execution against gun boats and certain supporting facilities of North Viet Nam which have been used in these hostile operations."

A summary of the raids made public later by the Defense Department showed that the U.S. planes did not reach their targets until 1:15 a.m. EDT Wednesday, or about an hour and a half after Johnson spoke.

Foreman subsequently told the House that Johnson's announcement might have endangered the success of the raids and amounted to "trigger-happy irresponsibility."

The congressman's remarks were followed by a statement by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara who said the U.S. planes had been in the air for about an hour when Johnson spoke. He said the Communists by then had "received indications of the attack" through radar.

McNamara also said the Communists did not have time to move their PT boats to safety and it was desirable for the Reds to understand that the attack was "limited and fitting," meaning that it was not aimed at Red China.

Adm. Moore told reporters Monday that he did not believe the U.S. planes had been detected by North Viet radar at the time Johnson went on the air. He said he did not believe Red radar picked up the planes until they were almost on target.

He also said, however, that he didn't think the President's statement gave the Communists any useful warning.

Board Takes Bid From Bray Bros.

By AL CHESTER
Courier-Times Staff Writer

The Pennsylvania Joint School board last night withdrew awards made last month on draining and paving bids because the low bidder could not obtain performance bonds.

The low bidder on both items was Bray Brothers, Fallsington, the firm fined in connection with a cave - in in Lower Makefield in which two men were killed.

Second Highest

The board instead awarded the drainage contract to the second highest bidder, George D. Taylor, at $3,000. Bray's bid was $2,550. No award was made for paving.

The bids are for work near the Pennsylvania High School, Lower Makefield.

In other business, the board heard a letter from the Bristol Township School Board listing several suppliers of school equipment which were indicted by the Federal government for violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act.

Asks Investigation

The board took no action other than authorizing its solicitor, Walter Jackson, to investigate to what degree the board has done business with the listed firms. Jackson said he would also consult solicitors from other boards and then present a comprehensive report at the next meeting.

In other action, the board last night approved Tullytown's application to become a member of the Pennsylvania Joint School Building Authority.

Its action followed similar action earlier by the four component boards: Falls, Lower Makefield, Yardley, and Tullytown.

The application must next be approved by the authority itself.

Act 229

The final step is to petition the state to amend the articles of the authority increasing the membership from five to six.

The board set Wednesday, Sept. 9, for a conference session on Act 229, school reorganization. The meeting will be open to the public, but there will be no public discussion, the board said. It will be held at 8 p.m. in the Charles H. Boehm School, Lower Makefield.

Finally, the board reappointed Dr. A. E. White as coordinating physician of the Pennsylvania Schools at $1,000 for the 1964-65 school year.

Two Wrapped Bodies Found

MIAMI (UPI) — Two bodies found wrapped in canvas, tied with rope and floating in a canal were those of an elderly white man and woman, Dade County police said today.

The bodies were neatly wrapped in two canvas packages and each was bound at the feet, knees, waist and shoulders. They were discovered Monday by four fishermen in a shallow canal south of here.

Detectives said they were attempting to establish the identities of the pair.

Bristol firemen today are wondering what happened to a kitten trapped last night in a storm drain at Lafayette and Pear Sts.

Fire Chief William Bolton and six men of the Consolidated Fire Company went to the kitten's rescue after receiving a call of the animal's plight at 6:30.

Each time the kitten appeared close enough to be rescued it was frightened back into the drain pipe by the presence of firemen and bystanders.

Bolton and his men returned to the fire station to give the kitten an opportunity to consider its situation and the crowd to disperse.

At 8:30 firemen again attempted to coax the little animal out of the drain but to no avail. After one and one-half hours they gave up to try again this morning.

However, the manhole cover over the drain was dislodged this morning and an inspection of the drain revealed no sign of the kitten.

Bristol Borough Manager Frank Patrizio, Jr., has been interviewing applicants to find a replacement for his secretary, Miss Mary Jane LaSalle.

Mary Jane will leave her job Friday. Following a short vacation she will take up new duties as Spanish teacher at Woodrow Wilson High School in September.

Showdown Seen Between Atlanta Restaurant, Negroes

By United Press International

A possible showdown shaped up today between Negroes and an Atlanta restaurant owner who defied the civil rights bill and chased Negroes away with a pistol.

A U.S. Supreme Court justice yesterday refused to intervene against enforcement of the public accommodations section of the law before a final decision has been made on the law's constitutionality.

An enforcement order from a special three-judge federal court became effective today.

The restaurant owner, Lester Maddox, stood by his vow to "never integrate," but said he would not close the doors to his Pickrick restaurant until Negroes show up for service.

Maddox said he expected such a move today but William Alexander, attorney who represented three Negro ministers in the case, said his clients had no plans of going to the Pickrick.

In another part of the same court action — the first court tests of the civil rights law — Moreton Rolleston, owner of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, said he would comply with the decision of Justice Hugo Black and the special court and accept Negroes as guests at his motel.

The suit against Maddox was instituted after three Negroes who said they were preachers "and everybody knows how preachers like fried chicken" showed up at the Pickrick on July 3, the day after President Johnson signed the civil rights bill.

The Pickrick specializes in fried chicken.

They were chased away by Maddox who pulled a pistol and a number of his customers who beat on the Negroes' car with ax handles.

Elsewhere:

St. Augustine, Fla.: Negroes were expected to begin "tests" at 17 motels and restaurants today following a federal judge's refusal to postpone integration of the establishments.

Greenwood, Miss.: Calypso singer Harry Belafonte and Academy Award winner actor Sidney Poitier presented civil rights workers with a check for $70,000 here last night that was raised by entertainers in the east.

Jackson, Miss.: The results of an official state autopsy on the bodies of three slain civil rights workers remained a closely guarded secret today, one week after the badly decomposed remains were found buried under a 20-foot earthen dam.

Tuskegee, Ala.: Negroes go to the polls today with a 104 vote edge over whites in an effort to duplicate in city elections their success in county races last May.

Richmond, Va.: The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals said Monday that Negro demonstrators must exercise their constitutional rights on free speech and assembly with responsibility and not "trample on the rights of others."

Dallas: Fifteen civil rights demonstrators swarmed into the offices of school Supt. W. T. White Monday and demanded total desegregation of Dallas public schools.

At Senate Hearings

Appearing before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee in Washington, D. C., today, on the Delaware River Compact (from left) are Edward K. Dribe, chairman of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission; U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), chairman of the subcommittee; State Rep. James J. A. Gallagher; State Sen. Marvin V. Keller; Bucks County Commissioner Walter J. Farley Jr. and Congressman Willard S. Curtin (R, Bucks-Lehigh). (UPI Telephoto)

a year. The port is expected to reap more than $5 million in annual benefits to communities in the three local counties and to provide for greater industrial growth in the entire Delaware Valley area.

Today's hearings opened at 10 a.m. with Senator Edward V. Long (D. Mo.) as chairman. Also on the committee are Senators Birch E. Bayh (D-Ind.) and Roman E. Hruska (R-Neb.). Due to the three hour limit on each day's hearing, testimony from each witness was limited to several minutes.

Other opposition is expected to come from at least two candidates for office in Burlington County.

The bill has been pending passage since the early part of the year. It was temporarily sidetracked by Lehigh Valley cement interests who feared the importation of foreign cement through the proposed port.

Assurances to the contrary softened this opposition and finally the bill was sent to the subcommittee for the hearings.

Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland, leading the cause of regional development testified in support of the legislation.

Robert Arrowood, chairman of the Lower Bucks Regional Cooperation Council, also testified and stressed the growth of the area and the benefit to be derived from development of a port.

Other Pennsylvanians expected to testify in support of the bill include Warren Likens, executive vice - president of the Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce; William Henwood president of the Bucks County Industrial Development Corp.; State Senator Marvin V. Keller; Ronald Zweig, manager of Bristol Township; State Representative James J. A. Gallagher, and Edward K. Dribe, chairman of the Joint Toll Bridge Commission.

Also expected to testify, in addition to Pennsylvania Senator Hugh Scott, co sponsor of the measure with Senator Joseph S. Clark, is Milton Berkes, chairman of the Falls Township Board of Supervisors, who will point to the industrial expansion of the area and its potential growth.

Easton and Phillipsburg officials oppose the plan stating they should not be penalized by toll charges which would benefit communities in which they have no interest.

Under the present compact between the two states, the commission's boundaries are from the northern border of Philadelphia on the Pennsylvania side of the river and from the north bank of the Rancocas Creek in New Jersey to the New York State line.

This area embraces four counties on the Pennsylvania side of the stream and four and a part of a fifth county bordering on the New Jersey bank.

For port development, the commission has recommended public common - use terminals of three types: — a general cargo terminal to serve the entire district for interchange between water carriers and trucks or trains with temporary warehouse facilities available for storage of materials; — terminals for such bulk cargo as lumber and petroleum products; — industrial access terminals to permit development of industries near the public terminals.

Democratic State Assemblyman James J. Gallagher today blasted Republican Bucks County Commissioners John J. Bodley and Joseph O. Canby for "having shirked their duty in not appearing before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee today."

Gallagher took the occasion of the subcommittee hearings on enabling legislation for upper Delaware River port development to level the charge at the commissioners.

Walter S. Farley Jr., minority county commissioner, also a Democrat, appearing in support of the legislation, said, "My colleagues should have been here to testify in behalf of this important legislation."

Milton Berkes, chairman of the Falls Township board of supervisors, joining Gallagher and Farley in criticizing the two absent commissioners. Leveling his charge at Bodley, Berkes said, "He is apparently not spending enough time on the job."

The three agreed the two absent commissioners should at least have filed written statements of support with the subcommittee.

School 'Frills' Hit At Meeting

was to award bids for storage and maintenance buildings. The bids came to $69,711, over $5,000 less than the budgeted figure of $75,000.

The board voted to continue discussion of the school at a special meeting Wednesday, 8 p.m., at the Charles H. Boehm School, Lower Makefield.

The first trumpet blast was sounded by Jim Smith of the Falls board who said he could not "in all conscience approve the plans. I found too many extraneous items, too many frills, in the project that will do nothing to further education."

He said he didn't want to delay the school's opening (set for Sept., 1965) but felt "there must be some way to review the plans and substitute other — less costly — items."

The board was scheduled to approve the final plans last night for submission to various state agencies for approval. Bids are scheduled to be asked on Aug. 24.

Agreeing with Smith, Richard Day, president of the Falls board, moved that the plans be approved but with the amendment: "subject to such revisions as are deemed necessary."

But fears about delay prompted Day to withdraw his motion and recommend that the plans be approved without amendment but "with the understanding that the architect — who is in our employ — will make recommended changes."

Issue Confusion

Confusion over the entire issue caused the board to postpone any action till tomorrow.

Smith said he objected to proposed oak paneling for the cafeteria and to a bus port whose "fancy and curved" covers cost "three times as much as a flat roof."

He recommended that the cafeteria walls be painted instead of paneled.

Day said he, too, found "two or three minor things" he would like revised.

Robert Trefz, president of the joint board, recommended the board approve the plans and that a committee be set up to review them and recommend changes. He appointed Raymond Wiese of Lower Makefield, Day, Smith, Wallace Edington of Yardley, and Morris Feldman, Tullytown.

The board will presumably decide tomorrow night whether the committee will function.

Several people pleaded with the board not to do anything to delay the school's opening.

David Rhone, assistant regional superintendent of Pennsylvania, cautioned the board that "time will be needed for the architect to make revisions." He said, "Whatever action is taken must be taken without delay."

Scores Delay

Raymond Lipschutz of Falls scored the board for delaying approval of the plans.

"The board has already told Mr. Vaughn (Ronald Vaughn, the architect) to design the school. Any changes now will just delay its construction."

He said the board was slowly adopting the procedure of "later reviewing everything it approves."

Vaughn told the board that minor changes could be made "without too much delay," but that we can't go to the state until the board approves the plans." He cautioned against any revisions that might force him to go back to the engineering firm for redesigning.

Board solicitor Walter Jackson also warned the board that excessive revisions would delay bids.

The cost of the new building also was debated. Smith said he was told in July the school would cost $3,826,000. "Now I find the estimate is $3,916,000," he said. "I don't know where the difference came from."

Mrs. Ernestine Scott of Lower Makefield said she recalled a figure of $3,500,000. "We're, therefore, $400,000 over this," she said.

H. Russell Brown, also of Lower Makefield, terminated this discussion by reminding the board that "We're only talking estimates. The cost will ultimately be determined by the bids."

Mme. Nhu's Kin Works For U.S.

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) — The Army confirmed yesterday that the sister of Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu is an employee of the John F. Kennedy Center for Special Warfare.

An Army spokesman said Madame Tran Le Chi, 35, has been working since June 18 as a Vietnamese language instructor at an annual salary of $5,200.

Her presence "has not been publicized because of political implications," the spokesman said.

Bible reading in the schools. But the Supreme Court has ruled against it and we must be guided by law not emotion."

The question of baccalaureate services was brought up by Raymond Lipschutz of the Falls board. If religious groups can't use a school's facilities, he asked, "what about baccalaureate services?"

Snipes agreed to table his motion until Jackson presents his opinion.

Ban Placed On Billboards

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The state Highways Department soon will begin ordering billboards removed along interstate highways.

Henry D. Harral, department secretary, said Monday the agency has adopted rules and regulations covering the program, thus allowing full implementation of the state law banning billboards within 660 feet of interstate roads.

TRIDENT'S DIAMOND STORE SINCE 1925

brides tell us
we're scaring them

Good, we say.

If our warnings in this column have scared diamond shoppers about some of the shady practices many diamond sellers use, then we've accomplished our goal.

Every bridal couple should know, for example, diamonds can be painted to look "blue-white". Also, so-called "wholesalers" don't really give wholesale prices, "discount" catalogs and sellers don't give discounts, and "pocket merchants" won't be waiting on the same street corner if you want a refund.

If we can scare brides, we also can reassure them there are diamond merchants who take pride in the service they render, and, above all, the reputation they have earned through the years. Need reassurance? Come see us.

Your Birthday

By STELLA

THURSDAY, AUGUST 11 — Born today, whether male or female, you have the shrewd, analytical mind of a man. However this does not mean that if you are a woman you are not feminine.

Indeed, your ability to think like a man in a man's world only heightens your womanly appeal for it makes you seem the epitome of feminine "mystery."

Emotionally you are solid as a rock. Seldom do you show any outward signs of anger, though you make it a point to please others by showing many signs of pleasure in public. It is at home that you "let your hair down"; there, when you choose, you are sad or glad, joyous or despondent — which is, after all, the way it should be.

Among those born on this date are: Arlene Dahl, actress; business woman; Carrie Jacobs Bond, songwriter; Nathalia Crane, poet, author.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, August 12
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Open your heart to another's glad tidings. He who cannot honestly share another's joy is poor indeed!

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Be consistent! The course you set for yourself in the morning, stick to! No day for changing horses midstream.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — An exceptionally good business opportunity may present itself to the Libra who has open ears and a tightly sealed mouth!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) — A day in which Scorpio can definitely create his own "good luck." Take advantage of opportunities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) — News received may be both unexpected and unusual. Don't be influenced by the manner in which you are informed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — You should have plenty of warning if a storm is brewing. Seek emotional shelter, should you suspect anything wrong.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) — Guard against any who would attempt to interfere in matters private to your own domestic situation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — Be the gracious recipient of "gifts," especially those from a loved one.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — Not the day for the wishy-washy approach. The quick, decisive Aries will come out on top.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Norman activities are safe; they bring normal results. For a dash of excitement, however, try something different.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Take care not to rely too much on one whose experience is not on par with yours. Should your own responsibilities.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — The time you waste in the morning, you will have to make up in the evening. Avoid this situation if you possibly can.
